YOUTHPower COMMUNITIES OF PRACTICE

YouthPower's Learning Network aims to work with the global community in the exploration, evaluation, and strengthening of youth-serving programs around the world. At the center of the network are YouthPower's Communities of Practice (CoPs) – social networks that drive discovery of promising practices in positive and cross-sectoral youth development.

Youth Engagement

The YouthPower Youth Engagement CoP is a forum for sharing resources and experiences among practitioners, researchers, youth leaders, and others concerned with engaging youth in the design, implementation, and evaluation of development programs.

Cross-Sector Skills for Youth

The Cross-sector Skills for Youth CoP focuses on identifying, defining, and measuring skills (commonly referred to as “soft skills”) which are intangible, applicable across fields and contexts, and intrinsically valuable to PYD.

Gender and Positive Youth Development

The Gender and PYD CoP seeks to bridge the best practices of gender-transformative programs to best practices in PYD.

Youth in Peace and Security

The Youth in Peace and Security CoP explores and promotes the role of youth in peacebuilding and crime prevention efforts.
